

Non-Fiction Rights

Outsourcing America

The True Cost of Shipping Jobs Overseas
and What Can be Done About It

Ron Hira & Anil Hira

Praise for Outsourcing America:

"An excellent book that brings clarity to this troubling subject."

Library Journal

"A comprehensive and illuminating account of the debate on offshore outsourcing, and one that offers some valuable tools for looking at familiar issues in a novel light."

Manufacturing & Technology News

Ron Hira, PH.D, P.E. is a recognized expert on outsourcing, and the only person to testify twice before Congress on its implications. He teaches public policy at Rochester Institute of Technology and lives in Rochester, New York

Anil Hira, PH.D is a specialist in international economic development and innovations issues. He teaches political science and Latin American studies at Simon Fraser University in Vancouver.

Non-Fiction: Business/Current Events

Publisher: Amacom (NYC)

Rights sold: World

Pub date: Hardcover 2005, Paperback 2008

Materials available: Finished book

Rights available: Translation/Film-TV

In the debate over outsourcing, one fact is clear: most companies still believe they can save a tremendous amount of money shipping jobs overseas. But how much is too much? Revised and expanded, this new edition of Outsourcing America exposes the hidden ways this alarming trend affects us all, revealing just how much outsourcing takes place, what its impact has been and will continue to be, and what can be done about the loss of jobs.

More than an exposé, Outsourcing America shows how offshoring is part of the historical economic shifts towards globalism and free trade, and demonstrates its impact on individual lives and communities. In addition, the book now features a new chapter on immigration policies and outsourcing, and advice on how individuals can avoid becoming victims of outsourcing.

